Woburn has many unique traditions and different landmarks that make it one of a kind compared to any other town, but one of these places holds a special place in all of our hearts; Horn Pond... or, more likely known as, "Hawn" Pond. It is a place we all know and love. We have walked this pond hand-in-hand with our mothers when we were just toddlers, zipped through the paths on our bikes and scooters as kids, and jogged through the winding trails with our friends as teenagers. We all have our special memories at Horn Pond, but we aren't the only ones who have them.

Horn Pond was not always called Horn Pond, it was once called Lake Innitou. The Massachusetts tribe, a long time ago, inhabited Woburn and lived at Mount Towanda, more commonly known as Horn Pond Mountain. With them, was the spirit of Manitou. On a clear day, with just the right light, it was believed that when the mountain was reflected into the clear waters of the lake, they could see an image so indescribable. They could see the face of the Great Spirit of Manitou. This is why the Lake was called Innitou or "looking place of the great spirit."

The indescribable view they saw in that Lake is what we want all of you to see when you look back into your yearbook many years from now. We want you all to be able to see a clear reflection of your high school years in the best light. We want you to be able to look back at this book and remember this time in your life as clear as the Massachusetts saw Manitou in the waters of Horn Pond.

Welcome to Woburn

Adjectives exist to describe nouns, to breathe life into them. Using them, sentences become pictures and from pictures to scenes within the mind. This lesson is taught in every English class at Woburn Memorial High School. Words are tools we as people use to communicate with one another. Without words it would be impossible to live life, to express joy, motivation, sadness, anger; life would cease to exist in the colorful fashion that we see it in. And yet, some would say that emotions lose their power when converted into words. And in our time here at Woburn Memorial High School, all the memories we cherished and all of the moments that left us giddy, breathless, and forever young, cannot be described by words. Moments like the first day of high school, where you walked in from the front doors and stared at bewilderment at the massive Tanner logo on the lobby floor. Moments like the last day where you looked into the bright blue sky, the sun shining upon you, and the future seemed to be at your doorstep. Even in the final moments where you walked upon the stage, received your diploma, and embraced all your classmates, family, and friends, and the realization hit you: these were moments that cannot be described by words, but they are felt with the raw emotion that coursed through your body. So step back, don't speak, and just take it all in. Because the perfect moments in life do not require words, there are no words, those moments are simply INDESCRIBABLE.

Whether you have lived in Woburn all of your life or if you moved here not too long ago, there are many places that make Woburn a unique city. Woburn is located about 12 miles northwest of Boston. If you climb the top of Horn Pond Mountain you can even see the Boston skyline. Our population is 38,000 people and we were first settled in 1640 thus making Woburn one of the oldest and most historic communities in New England.

The nation's early rubber industry was established by Charles Goodyear in East Woburn. Demand for shoe leather during the Civil War gave Woburn's leather industry a huge boost to 21 leather tanning establishments hence our mascot name of "Tanners." Whether you live in the South End, Four Corners, Central Square, East Side or North Woburn you can appreciate the history.

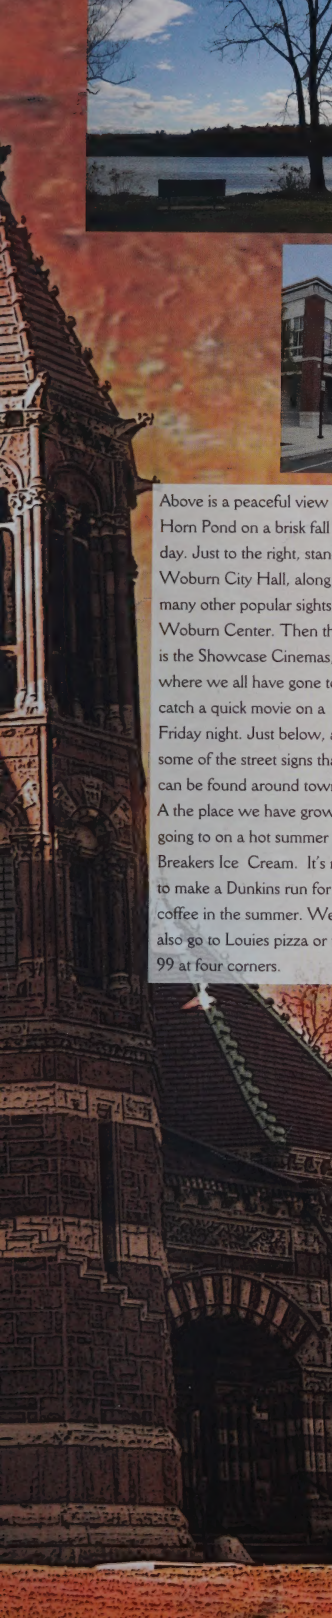

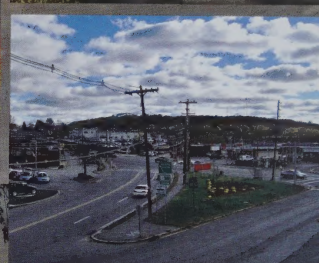

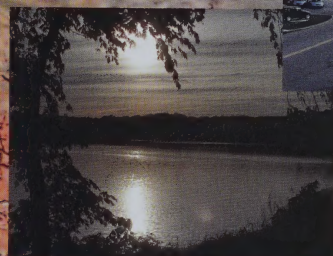

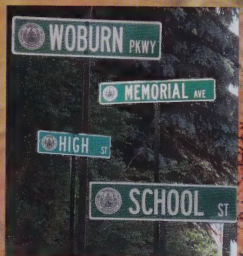

The Woburn Public Library is a national historical landmark, and Colonel Loammi Baldwin is known as the Father of American Civil Engineering. Sir Benjamin Thompson, known as Count Rumford was a famous scientist and inventor.

Woburn is an indescribable town that has many unique places and people. Welcome to Woburn!

Above is a peaceful view of Horn Pond on a brisk fall day. Just to the right, stands Woburn City Hall, along with many other popular sights of Woburn Center. Then there is the Showcase Cinemas, where we all have gone to catch a quick movie on a Friday night. Just below, are some of the street signs that can be found around town. A place we have grown up going to on a hot summer day, Breakers Ice Cream. It's nice to make a Dunkins run for ice coffee in the summer. We can also go to Louies pizza or the 99 at four corners.

SEASONS in New England

We are so lucky to live in New England and experience all of the seasons. Fall is the season that everyone associates with school but fall is so much more. Fall brings apple picking, cider, cool crisp air and the beautiful colors of the leaves. Halloween holiday festivities bring memories of The Woburn Host Lions Parade and trips to Witches Woods, Canobie's Spooky World, and let's face it; no matter how old you are, trick-or-treating. Fall also brings along some crazy weather! One of the most memorable things from fall was Hurricane Sandy, which happened in October of 2012.

On the topic of unforgettable memories, the winters in New England can be harsh. They bring us freezing weather, hot chocolate, and obviously plenty of snow. We love to receive a "no school" phone call because of a snowstorm so we can sleep late, watch movies or even go sledding. But we all know that winter is not all fun and games. It also brings a giant mess of snow that we have to shovel, snow blow, and plow. Speaking of tons of snow, Blizzard Nemo, which happened in February of 2013, was one of the largest snowstorms that we have ever experienced. It is surprising that the snow from that blizzard is not still on the ground right now!

After the long dark days of winter, it is nice to have longer days. Spring means that the snow will melt, hopefully, and the warm weather will come around. But, just when you think it is over, the rain begins. But do not worry, summer is on its way and we all know that school is coming to an end.

Trips to the pool, beach, and lake to cool off from the hot summer sun are the most fun. Summer brings shorts, sunglasses and flip flops. The weather around here sure is interesting, to say the least. But do not worry, if you hate the weather in New England, just wait, it will change in five minutes!

EXTENSIVE

Shown here are various students hanging out and having fun in different seasons! At the far left, Michael Delong makes the best of winter and takes a quad ride in the snow. Just next to him, Joao Vitor Soares is just getting off the bus on the first day of school. Below Michael, Adrianna and Nicolette Manzi are hanging out at the beach and soaking up the summer sun. Just to the left, Alyssa Santiago giving a piggy back to Cassie Loughman. At the center, Tiara Gonzalez, Nafessa Johnson, Kellie Herbert, and Shannon Walsh pose for a picture while sporting their Tanner Trot shirts. At the bottom left, Michael DeCampo, Erin Kimmelman, and Caterina Gentile are looking cozy in their winter sweaters. At the bottom right, Michael DeCampo, Erin Kimmelman, and Caterina Gentile are looking cozy in their winter sweaters.

1: Move Up Day: when students get next year's schedule and walk through a preview of their future year.

2: The Halloween Parade: when the whole town comes together to see all of the amazing floats.

3: Senior t-shirts: when junior girls decorate their shirts to show the school they are finally seniors.

4: The Powderpuff game: when the senior girls face off against the junior girls in an intense game of football coached by the Varsity football players.

5: The Tanner Trot: the fundraiser put on by the girl's soccer team when students pay to get a t-shirt and participate in a 2 mile walk.

6: Friday night football games: when the whole school comes out to cheer on the football team, even against the elements of rain or cold.

7: Hallway decorating: when members of each class get assigned a hallway to fill with creativity and crazy decorations.

8: Flag Day: when members of the town gather together in library park field for some fun amusements and then end the night with fireworks

9: The Yearbook Ceremony: when the class receives their books and get signatures.

10: The Annual Essay: when February rolls around, students are assigned a list of topics and write an essay on one of them. It may be dreaded it has become a tradition

8: The Carnival: when Spring rolls around and the movie theater parking lot goes from an empty space to being filled with rides and games, cotton candy, and lots of other treats.

TRADITIONS

Senior members of the band, Kyle Riley, Joe Miller, Chris Connolly, Erin Kimmelman, Mariah Sullivan, Joe Filardo, and Cameryn Tierno get ready to embark for their final march in the Halloween Parade. To the right Brandon Heath and Gretchen Parker hit mile one in this years Tanner Trot. Members of the Club of Social Concern go Shrek themed for their float this year. Trying to make their class's hallway funner and more decorative than any other are Molly Goddard, Rafaella Lima, Ivila Dos Santos, and Alyssa Ahlin. Finally, Rose Kilmain is all smiles before heading out on the Tanner Trot.

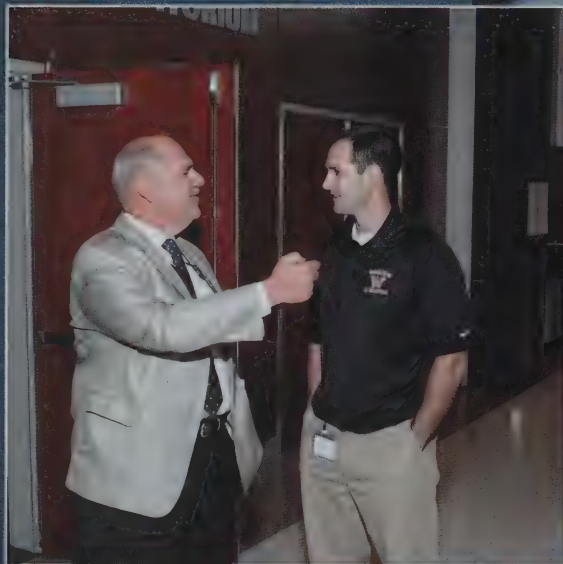

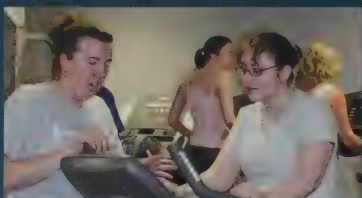

Among the crowd at a close Friday night football game is Michael Foley who pumps up the stands with his excitement as the Tanners head into the final quarter. Brett Duran also shows his team spirit and support of the Tanners at a Friday night game. The winning senior girls team is all smiles on a cold night during the annual Powderpuff game, just after their big win against the Juniors. Finally LeAnn DiMauro, Nikkie Huynh, Allison Young, Adrianna Manzi, Cat Gentile, Nicolette Manzi, Kara Razzaboni, and Sam Young show off their hand made senior t-shirts on their first official day of being seniors.

Dedication

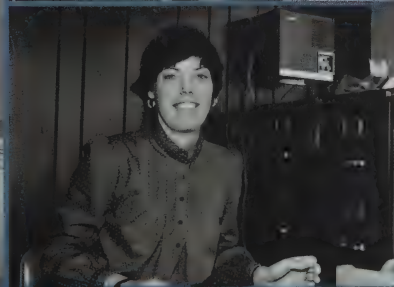

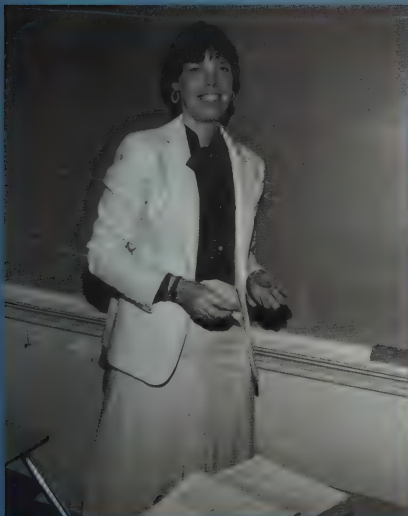

Ms. Ellen Connell

It is with great honor that we dedicate our yearbook to Ms. Ellen Connell. Ms. Connell is a silent leader in our school who began her teaching career in 1969 in the Business Department at Woburn High. During the course of her career she taught typing and word processing. She then changed careers and became a guidance counselor and eventually the Director of the Guidance department. Throughout the past 45 years, Ms. Connell has continuously inspired many students to be the best that they can be. Elegant, lovely and kind are words to describe her personality and manner.

Her teaching style reflects her personality, as she is able to bring out a desire in students to learn and to achieve their goals. Ms. Connell is an amazing person who always takes the time to guide many students on their course decisions in preparation for college, military or the work force. She can be found in her corner office many days until 4:00 p.m. preparing paperwork for her department. Her door is always open to give advice to those who stop by her office.

She is a kind friend to her colleagues and always has a bright smile on her face while wearing the latest fashion in clothes. We believe this quote about life reflects what Ms. Connell lives by on a daily basis, "Over the years you will meet many people. All are significant. They deserve your attention and care, even if all you do is smile and say hello." Thank you for dedicating over 45 years to Woburn High School. We hope that you know that your kindness to everyone will last a lifetime.

The Class of 2014
is proud to dedicate our book to you,
Ms. Ellen Connell.

THE PEP RALLY! Loud music, black and orange for days, and utter mayhem. That's the pep rally, a time where the classes duke it out in the name of school pride, where teachers are "pie-d", and where students get to make as much noise as they want.

#11

The Fan Sections- Woburn loves its sports teams and we'll let you know it. Home to some of the rowdiest and chirpiest fans out there you shouldn't worry too much. As long as you're wearing black and orange, they have your back.

The Senior Cafe- Sitting in it you felt like the kings and queens of the school.

2014

The Top Locker- There's nothing worse than having to bend down and get on the ground to get your stuff. Thank god you have the top locker right?

Our Building- Despite the various mixed feelings of the idea of school, one can't help but admit, the building itself is incredibly new and well built, way better than Winchester eh?

Move Up Day- A whole day as a preview to the next year. You got to see your future classmates and teachers. Oh yeah, an added bonus: free time to relax after all the introductions to the classes.

#14

The New York Trip- Don't get me wrong, we all love Woburn, but there's nothing quite like the big apple.

14 Things We LOVE About Our School

#12

The Thanksgiving Game - 122 years of football between Woburn and Winchester and still going strong. I think you can guess who's got the better record.

The Cookies at Lunch- They're there everyday. Little things of sweetness and deliciousness, and all for 50 cents a pop.

The Costume Contest- Remember when you wanted to be a princess? Now is your chance!

The Dating Game- Every Friday before February Vacation the school's sweethearts and hopefuls are gathered onto the stage for a game show. Maybe they'll find love...or maybe the crowd gets quite the laugh.

No. 7

THE STEP TEAM- Admit it, the Step Team is awesome. They have rhythm, they have soul and they have swag. We're all a little bit jealous aren't we?

The Front Parking Spaces- A. K. A. Dave and Liv's Car.

Academics

Everything begins with a start. And in every moment there lies a decision. Our mornings were of no exception. The sound of an alarm or perhaps a voice, urged you to wake and to begin the day, or perhaps another precious minute in bed. Every year began with a trip down to the Flaherty Auditorium. It was the first day and you heard the same words from Principal Finigan we all came to know: "Welcome, Class of 2014, to another year at Woburn Memorial High School." Each day thereafter was a mass of new ideas, clubs, team members, and even students. It only took a moment and within that a decision. From that first day we began new relationships and supported new movements, and took part in experiences that were new and foreign to us. Our voices and ideas paved the way for the future generations, all while forging our own paths to the future. We were born from our own initiation. The wheels to our lives have begun to spin. We were coming for the world. We were a generation of revolutionaries. And funny how all of it began with one decision.

You have come far. Today you are wiser, much taller, and far more aware of the world around you. Or perhaps you are much more daring and fearless. No matter what the metamorphosis may be, you have changed. Nostalgia ripples over you and a small twinge of sadness overcomes you. Something triggers a memory. And suddenly, almost as quickly as you matured, you're right back at your elementary or maybe middle school. Elementary school was a time when you were innocent and young and back to days of Spongebob and U-12 soccer. You are so much more confident today, yet you can still feel it. The excitement of middle school, the much welcomed apprehension of meeting new friends and most importantly lunch time. Your new Heelys squeak in the colorful halls of your middle school. Those were the times and you will never forget them. There are bigger things in your life now, but you cannot and will not let go. Much like those cookies at lunch that you loved so much, your time in elementary and middle school was so sweet and precious, and it was gone far too quickly.

Francesco Albanese, Ricky Metters and Alex Izovaras are bombarded by text messages from a group message. Kerry Flaherty and Kristen Matthews get their tan on at the beach. David Soares is ready to score in the frisbee game. Christopher Connolly tries not to get his nose burned from the sun. Gabriella DiFraia, Adrianna Manzi, Erin Kimmelman, Nicolette Manzi and Mary McCarthy duck-face pose in the pool.

On the right, Kaitlyn Smith tries to find her homeroom on her nerve-racking first day with the help of Mrs. Christerson. In the center, Brianna Baptista and Sarah Norton head into the school to find out what these next four years have in store for them. Nikkie Huyhn, Joseph Filardo, and Dylan Johnston make their way to the auditorium and discuss which classes they have together.

For many of us, freshman year was synonymous with one word: uncertainty. But nothing in life is as simple as a single word now is it? Freshman year was our birth into a more adult world. High school itself was a door to the adult world. But as excited as we felt, we also shook with fear at the mere thought of high school. The morning of your first day was dreadful. The walk up from the parking lot was like a marathon. You walked through the doors, the principals greeting you, and the cameraman taking pictures like no tomorrow. But the massive Tanner logo sprawled across the main lobby left you in a state of awe. And suddenly, it hit you. You were in high school. Days passed, and the uncertainty was replaced by tranquility. Weeks go by and that tranquility became hope. High school was everything you had imagined! You had new friends to go to the football games with. There were new teachers to meet and classes to take. The world had bloomed like a flower, the future was bright like the sun shining outside. And each step you took on the main staircase was like another step towards a brighter tomorrow.

Aside from the butterflies in your stomach, you had most likely forgotten that high school, was still school. Yes, you still had to read, partake in the daily courses of geometry and history. And yes, you had to take tests. Classrooms that used to be filled with your friends from middle school, were now clustered with new and unfamiliar faces. But hey, at least the class itself was fairly refreshing. Biology and Italian, just some of the new classes that you instantly fell in love with. And as you sat in the classroom entranced by the ideas and concepts that flowed throughout the class, unbeknownst to you, you began making friends. Your new classmates, all as eager, nervous, and excited as yourself, started talking, walking, and laughing with you. And before you realized it, you had friends again. And as for the schoolwork, not much seemed to changed. As difficult as it seemed at first glance, you assimilated, adapted, and there you were, going along. Math homework? Dojue. History project. Yup. English pop quiz. Um excuse me? That just about describes our freshmen academic life. Homework was homework, school was still a drag. But your classmates? They were the best. And as a little naive and young freshman, class was another obstacle in your fun high school career. But deep down you enjoyed it. And as all this flashed through your mind, you remembered that math homework you neglected to do.

Ugh. Late again. Even weeks after your first day as a high school student, you still struggled to complete the seemingly impossible task of waking up at 6:30 in the morning just to go to school. But everyday seemed somewhat exciting. You were still not accustomed to the idea that you were in high school. The wings and the halls were still all so foreign. Visiting a new hall seemed like visiting a foreign country. Homework was a drag. Same old routine it seemed. The huge selection of sports was no less than awesome. A huge and beautiful turf stadium to play and practice on, tennis courts, basketball courts, and even a baseball field! You couldn't even decide what to try out for. But then again, you were only 15. You probably didn't have the perfect smile, hair, or height that you probably wanted, but you did have time. For once, time was on your side. There would be more time in the future to do all the other "important" things. So what mattered now? At fifteen, probably the next football game, what was new on Facebook, or even who was Taylor Swift's new boyfriend. In essence, fifteen years old, meant you were still a kid, ahem, pardon me, a teenager, who still had no direction, but didn't really need direction. Everything was fine as it was, hanging out with friends, ice cream at Breakers, that was the gist of it. And as much as it scared your parents, it meant only one more year until they had to start teaching you how to drive.

It was the first, but certainly not the last dance of your four years at the high school. Dances in middle school had always seemed nonchalant and carefree, but now? It seemed to be a much larger ordeal then it used to be. Shirt, tie, and dress shoes, for the boys. Dresses and heels for the girls...and makeup, and the manicure and pedicure, as well as a trip to the salon, but anyhow, we were all a little nervous for the Freshman dance. Maybe it was fear of not knowing anyone, or maybe it was simply the atmosphere, either way, the dance seemed daunting.

Somehow Francesco Albanese finds himself shaking his head to the sound of the beat as he realizes the fun he's having. Slowly but surely, as more and more people arrived, his friends Randy, Christian Lundin and Bradley Stiffler find him. There they go, all comfortably they head towards the massive crowd of people in the middle of the dance floor. Kawai Marin starts busting out every single dance move he's ever seen. How fun was this? The secret goof balls, dancers, and funkmasters stopped being shy. Lights flashing, music bumping, people dancing, and suddenly the DJ hollers "ARE YOU READY?!" And speaking of fun, here comes the crowd favorite, "Cotton Eyed-Joe".

At the top right, Anthony Scarpone and Patrick Malone laugh hysterically as they fight to get in the photo. At the top left, Joseph Mestone and Nicholas Thomas head into school thinking they are "all that" since they're no longer freshmen. At the center, Kylie Gonsalves, Gretchen Parker, and Caitlin O'Donnell walk into their first assembly as sophomores. Above, Alex Movsession, Jazmyne Zampell and Jamie Marashio take a photo with Mrs. Hannigan. At the bottom left, Nick Tran, Peter McSweeney, and Chris Burns hangout at lunch. On the right, Alexandra DiMauro and Kate Girardi pose for a photo before their sophomore semi in their stunning dresses.

It would be different this time. You were a seasoned and experienced veteran. Heck, you were a sophomore. With a year under your belt, this time, you were a "real" high school, your confidence was at an all time high. No more walking into the wrong classroom or getting lost. You had a group of friends that was now known as your "crew" and you were taking the school by storm. There was sophomore semi, new classes, and you maybe even thought of running for a class office. And there were so many clubs to join; some you didn't even know existed! Leo Club, LEARN, Interact, Best Buddies, all clubs for great causes, and you were going to be part of the whole experience! One step closer to becoming a senior, but that wasn't even a thought. The only thing worth caring about was what time the football game was. Living in the moment and being young and carefree while you still could, that's what you wanted. You screamed at the top of your lungs at the hockey rink and Connolly Stadium. "Tanner Pride" had seemingly permeated into every aspect of your life. But hey, that's what it was, that was sophomore year, you were a little more comfortable in your own skin, a little more mature than your freshman selves, and much more ready to face the challenges of tomorrow...namely that math test you "forgot" to study for.

At the top a group of girls, including Kristen Matthews and Allison Young, have a great time at lunch. At the center, Melissa Bruno and Courtney Heck walk the halls in search of their next class. Above, Mihail Vasilev throws his hands in the air like he just don't care. On the right, Brittany Queen and Cameryn Tierno laugh hysterically during their music class. On the left, Zachary Tanner and Bryan Sutherlin hug it out during an assembly.

Back at it again for round two of your four part academic journey. At the center of it all lay more decisions. Decisions like, what courses to take, and in odd retrospect, what path would you embark on for the future? Christian Lundin recalls, "I decided to take a business course to get a feel for it and see if I would like it. And yes, I did end up liking it." Along with the exciting new class options also came the AP menace that some students eagerly hoped to conquer. "It was wicked hard. I spent a lot of time worrying and studying for the class, but it was definitely a worthwhile accomplishment", says Ryan Connolly. This year was also a year of redemption. To actually study this year, to make the honor roll, these were only some of the central reasons driving the students. Class ranks were also released this year. Students raced to Guidance, eager to find out their ranks. And while others merely took this information as mere folly, others used this as motivation to work harder in school, a factor which would later better their academic livelihoods. Whatever your reason for academics was, just like Mr. Kaufman often screamed, "JUST DO IT!"

At the top, Amy Galindo gives a thumbs up to the camera to show how much enthusiasm she has for Mr. Toussaint's Spanish class. On the left, Rose Kilmain jumps alarmed as Trevor Barnette goes for the secret attack hug. At the bottom left, Alaina Frasca and Kathleen Brennan strut down the hall in style. Jeez, the sun was way too bright for a regular Tuesday morning. Then suddenly your alarm went off and began blaring a random song from your iPod. Another 5 minutes would be awesome. But the countdown began, and you needed to get to school. So you started the routine that you'd gotten so used to your sophomore year. Like a machine you showered, ate breakfast, changed, packed your bags, and left home. The ride to school was just another typical trip, to another seemingly mundane day spent in Woburn High School. And yet, in the pit of your stomach was a small amount of excitement, obviously not for the tests you were bound to take, but to meet your friends, to begin the day. It was the same old routine in school: math, english, history, language, and science, it was all the same. Then what was it that made you excited? As monotonous as the days seemed, the events on the horizon, all the little different events this year filled you with a giddy excitement. In a couple months you would begin driving lessons! And although you rolled your eyes every time you thought of it, you really needed to study hard for that Business class, otherwise you couldn't go to Sophomore Sem II. You snapped out of your day dream, fourth period had ended. You had a much rest next period and you really needed to study. But you smiled to yourself, you had first lunch. No matter how regular the day seemed, getting first lunch never seemed dull.

Oh yeah, Sophomore Semi was a thing, right? Forget the nervous jitters and the slight awkwardness that everyone felt at Freshman Freeze (don't deny it), and crank up the energy and rowdiness, and you'd have a pretty good description of Semi. Everyone was having a great time, drinking the "refreshments" (AKA water bottles..) in the cafe, and dancing like they had never danced before on the dance floor. Laughing, screaming, joking, about last year's dance, and how this was much better. At this dance, you were a veteran, you knew all the little gimmicks and tricks that went along with a successful dance. Maybe you put on some cologne this time, got a hair cut, shaved, painted your nails purple instead of neon orange, whatever it was, it was working pretty well. The music seemed louder too. Maybe it was because DJ Dan actually played good dance music instead of Tim McGraw and 50 cent. But all in all, it was awesome. For now, put that aside and clear the floor, you needed to teach some people how to "dougie".

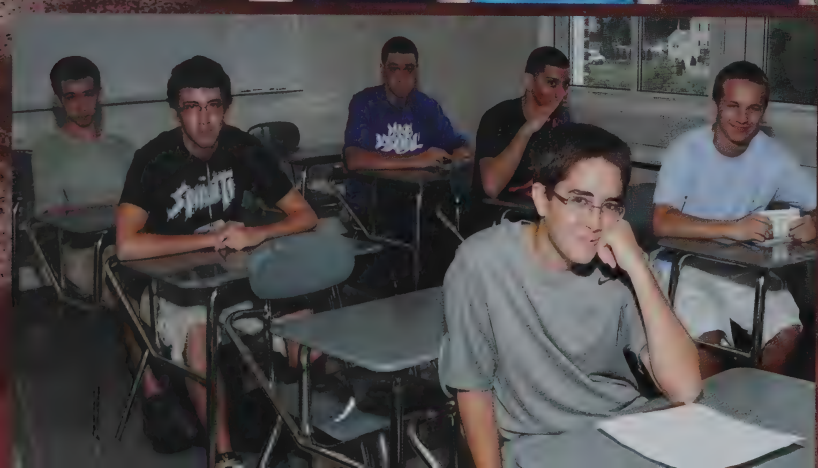

At the top, Paul Parceiro, David Ferranti, and Michael Mallard pose for a photo at their second school dance ever. On the right a group of girls, including Nikkie Huynh, Gabriella DiFraia, Erin Kimmelman, Mary McCarthy, and Samantha Young, do the "prom pose" at their sophomore semi. On the left, Tyler Brinkley dances his heart out on the dance floor. Above, Connor McGrath and Caitlin O'Donnell smile for the camera.

Throw your threes up because Junior Year showed up one day and said, "What's up, are you pumped?" Were you pumped? OF COURSE. No more underclassmen shenanigans, you had finally reached that seemingly unattainable upperclassman status. No more nerves, you were in control and comfortable in your own skin. Excitement was probably the best way to describe how you felt. Whether it may be because you finally got to start for a sport or even just because you were happy to say you were a junior. Junior Year was all about being intense and giving it everything you've got. Because yes, as awful as it seemed, college was just around the corner. And we'd heard it from our older peers, Junior Year is tough and it counts for a lot. Which meant you probably should have started reading your English books. But just like that viral Youtube video said, you dismissed it with a "Ain't nobody got time for that", or maybe even a YOLO. But maybe it should've been a YOAJO for You're Only A Junior Once. So, away we went, whether we were ready or not. So brace yourself for Junior Year, a ride that took you along to your first Prom (Junior Prom), the crazy roller coaster at the hockey games, and all sorts of nonsense. Our third time around was stuffed full of crazy fun and hilarity. And as you all eventually figured out, Junior Year crashed in and hit harder than Mrs. Joseph's tests on a Monday morning. So hurry up because high school was more than half over already, and because you really needed to get to the parking lot early to park your car.

Junior Year. Its go time. Everybody always told you "Junior Year is really important." And yes, you knew it deep down, but you were a tad sick of hearing it. By now it was already ingrained in your head. Determination seized your very being and your heart became a fire of passion. All the hard work today would result in a brighter day tomorrow. So yes, there were times when you would ponder and say, "Why did I ever sign up for this AP class?!", or "THIS MATH TEST IS INSANE!", but you knew deep down, it would be worth it. Junior Year was hard work, but here you were, grinding it out. Some nights were spent up late, studying, and some weekends were filled with reading and projects. But hey, its as Colin Powell said, "A dream doesn't become reality through magic; it takes sweat, determination, and hard work." Well said sir and Amen to that.

On the left, a classroom of students, including Cady Clafin and Emily Sullivan, wait to begin their notes for history class.

one step closer

The air is fresh and crisp, complimenting the already picture perfect day that you had the joy of experiencing.

Seventeen was your age. 2013 was the year, 12:15 was the time, Fifth period was nearing its end and in the midst of your classmates loud conversations, you were lost in your own thoughts. Practice after school then perhaps a trip to Chipotle for a burrito. Wait, then it suddenly hits you, it's Friday, every high schooler's favorite day of the week.

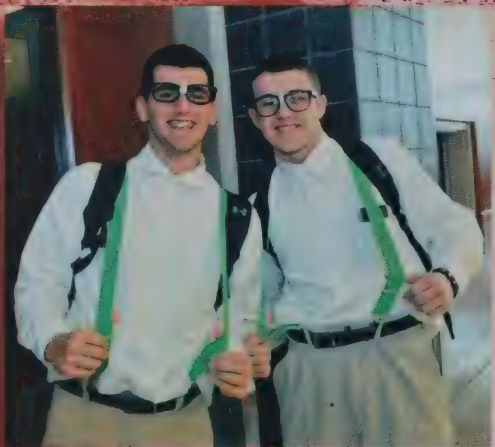

Yes! Chipotle with your friends and follow it up with a long night of nonsense.

Whatever you planned to do, you were positive it would be fun to an extent, it's what high schoolers do.

They go to practice, have fun, and eat Chipotle.

Mellow skies and gray clouds hovered overhead. The finishing touch was rather ill received sprinkles of rain. Not exactly the type of weather Devin Parziale had envisioned for her first prom, "It was cloudy and the rain didn't help at all." Pictures that would usually be taken on lawns were instead, moved into the living rooms and staircases of homes. Adrianna Manzi recalls, "My house was stuffed full of people! It was actually funny to see so many people struggle to fit in." Girls struggled to keep their dresses dry as they dragged across the ground. As for the guys, well they had the job of hoisting massive umbrellas in an attempt to keep their dates dry. It was #thestruggle to get to the Hilton but we arrived, annoyed and excited. As we climbed the stairs to the upper floors, we searched around for your friends. Then came the barrage of photos and endless posing for friends, photographers, and teachers. Finally dinner was served and prom had begun. The reserved manners and elegance had faded into dance, laughter, and merriment. And all sorts of shenanigans ensued in the middle of the dance floor, from dance contests and to dougie showcases, only this time unlike your first dances, people had finally learned the intricate art of the "dougie". And DJ Dan kept the hit songs coming, and so we danced the night away. Inevitably, as the songs slowed, we all knew this night was coming to an end. And wherever you went as you departed, be it the basement of your friends or your own house, as our exhausted selves slowly drifted to sleep, one thought echoed through all of us. "What. A. Night."

At the top left, a group of girls pose in their fabulous dresses, among them are Erin Kimmelman, Shannon Walsh, and Mariah Sullivan. At the top right, Kate Girardi get their photo taken. On the left, Cara Black and Gretchen Parker smile for the camera in their gorgeous, sparkly dresses. At the bottom right, Robert Galvin walks into school on his first day as a senior, followed by Robert Voci and Samuel Ventresca. Below, a group of seniors squeeze in for a photo during their first assembly as seniors.

You've probably heard the saying before, in all sorts of movies and the couple books you "read". And yes, it's clichéd and more often than not, spoken far too lightly: Every beginning has an end. But, you probably already realized that a while ago. Your journey and time in high school neared its end, the finish line in sight. It certainly left you in a sort of ironic situation, being ecstatic to be a senior, finally on top of the high school social ladder, but also sad, that the greatest times of your youth were now leaving you. But you put that aside. Senior year was your time to go all out, to leave your mark, to leave high school feeling satisfied with your time spent here. There were still the dances, the football games, but also such newcomers as the Holiday Dance, Senior Prom, and the big kahuna, college applications. Bring. It. On. Senior Year was a year of tying up loose ends and finishing strong. Which brings another clichéd saying into the mix: It isn't about how you start, it's all about how you finish. And so you thought, "Bring on the colleges, the dances, the school events, and tell them I want in." Especially college, here it was! The big finale, the culmination of all four years of your work in high school. It seemed like it was only yesterday that you started high school, and here was college just around the corner. Ironically, what seemed like such little time, held so many memories, you would never forget the time spent with your friends, trips with your family, classes with your favorite teachers. So the final year has arrived. Make the most of it, there will never be a time like it ever again.

At the top, Chantel Torres and Allison Mahon walk into school flaunting their home-made 'senior' shirts. At the center, Alexander Hickey and Paul Marshall head to their next class. Say what you will and believe what you may, but the essence of high school is to prepare the young minds of today to impact the future. Whether your studies will lead your next step to the echelons of collegiate education, or you take the realms of trade schools and blue-collared jobs, whatever it may be, high school was first and foremost a place of learning. It was however, by no means without its own fun. Strictly speaking, there are only a few words that come to mind: It. Was. Hard. Yes, for four years we toiled and struggled in our studies. Our many hours spent studying, testing, and reading have finally produced a wonderfully well-rounded individual, prepared for the challenges of the future. But the time of struggles and stress is over. Our final days of preparation for adulthood had ended before our disbelieving eyes. The calm and familiar days spent in classrooms were no more. But let's reflect for a bit shall we? Remember on those days, spent in the classroom, laughing with your friends, groaning at the sound of test time, joking with teachers, these little things, all part of your high school experience. But it isn't over yet. We are still scholars, still students, and somewhere in the deep recesses of your being, you know that you will always be a student.

...now we're here

It was rather shocking, you blinked and just like that, four years had gone by. And those were quite the years weren't they? But, enough with reminiscing, there is still time to be spent, still one more step to be taken before the end of our high school days. There is an undeniable sense of pride and accomplishment associated with being a senior. Inevitably, there is an almost ironic sense of sadness and longing in knowing that your days as a high school student are numbered. Days you spent with your friends, practices on the fields, band rooms, the track, etc. Days you spent around the people who were sweating, working, laughing, and joking beside you. These experiences and the people you have met, they are the hammer that has shaped your persona into what it is today. Your identity as a naive teenager is over, replaced by a blooming adult. Whoever you are, a band member, athlete, scholar, or a simple student, here you stand today. Unwavering and in eternal remembrance of your past, but prepared to take the last step. So, wherever and however you have started, all that matters is that you have ended here.

"CLASS OF 2014 ARE YOU READY TO GET LOUD!", screamed M.C. Caterina Gentile. And we delivered. This was our fourth Pep Rally. For all the ones spent in silence, boredom, and even complete annoyance, as seniors we simply refused to leave high school without an even partially successful and fun Pep Rally. So we screamed. After all, the Pep Rally was both a gathering for school spirit and the classes battled to be the loudest, rowdiest, and peppiest. Chris Power recalls, "I usually played the guitar along with the band for the rally. And since I'm passionate about music I was excited to get people pumped up." "My personal favorite thing at the pep rally every year is the Step Team," says Alex DiMauro. The crowd favorite, the foot stomping, hand clapping Step Team, put on a show, demonstrating perfect coordination, bringing the crowds into a frenzy. In addition to all that, there were teachers being "pie-d", giving the entire school a good laugh. But highlight of the pep rally was definitely Chris Burn's cartwheel. It was unreal just like our school spirit.

At the left middle, Trevor Barnett is lifted up by Mr. Fowle and Mr. Bridgeo and paraded around the gym like a king. Above, Erin Kimmelman along with some other band members play the traditional pep rally song to boost spirits. On the left, Mrs. Thambash basks in shame as she wipes the frosting from her face after being pied. Mr. Scarborough gets a squiggy to the face to remove the pie.

A week dedicated to bringing out the black and orange inside every student, more commonly known as Spirit Week. A week where black and orange is worn until it's out of style. Halls are adorned with decorations, and various school activities ignite the Tanner Superfan within each student. Yes, spirit week's true value lay in its versatility. Simply speaking, there was something during this week for everyone. Twin Day for the quirky, Pajama Day for all the non-morning people, the hall decorating contest for the creative...and the people looking to get out of class, the Powderpuff Game for the athletic, and the pep rally for only the rowdiest, one of which would spurn your participation. Especially for seniors, this was the week to go off. Your last year as a Tanner, so why not go out with a bang.

At the top left, Anthony Scarpone and Nicole Gangi, homecoming king & queen, get their picture taken in their crowns. At the top right, Eric Juko hands in his ticket at the beginning of the dance. At the center, a group of senior girls take a break from dancing and pose for a photo. On the left, Hannah Black and Alyssa Ablin wave their hands in the air like they just don't care. At the bottom, Sarah Norton, Joshua Rodrigues, Gabrielle Lucci, Brittany Queen, and Jonathan Gatlin vote for king & queen.

Your Homecoming King and Queen, Anthony Scarpone and Nicole Gangi! To the surprise and delight of both the winners and witnesses, the king and queen were crowned. But enough with the dance royalty, they were soon united with their subjects, on the dance floor. Homecoming is comparable to the start of a timer or race. It was the first dance of the few precious ones that the seniors had remaining. It was, oddly, a joyful night, scarred by the underlying realization that the end was coming. Homecoming was the beginning of the end. But forget that for now. Homecoming was calling, make sure that this night was one to worth remembering. Dance upon the lobby floor as if this was the last dance of your high school journey. Dance as if there was no tomorrow.

Winter is coming. So what does that mean? Christmas is here to go and deck the halls with...black and orange? Nothing is immune to the spirit of Christmas and the high school was of no exception. Christmas season meant, reindeer, Santa Claus, snowmen, presents, cookies galore, some holly, and a whole lot of jolly, and the Holiday Dance. It may be the ramblings of a crazy writer, but there is something magical about snow covering the ground as a flurry of people dance. And that is what the Holiday Dance epitomizes. When you take the excitement of a dance and combine it with the joy of the holidays, what you get is nothing short of magical. On this one night, black and orange of the Tanner takes a backseat to the red and white of Santa Claus. So in addition to all the holiday themed accessories that cover the students like a blanket of snow, have a photo shoot decked out with all sorts of props, and waltz to the tune of carols. So grab your clothes, your goofy Christmas themed socks, grab your Santa hats, and get your Jingle-Bell rock on.

Jaye has been part of the track team since freshman year. She began by running with her mother who runs marathons and has since run numerous marathons of her own. She won her age group in the Jingle Bell Run 5k, Team Hoyt 5k, and Tufts 10k, to name a few. Although not planning to run in college, she will continue on her own. "I hope to continue to train for marathons." "Run to live. Live to run."

Playwright

Performing since he was a child, John has had roles in the high school plays such as Annie, A Streetcar Named Desire, and The Wizard of Oz. He spent the summer of 2013 writing his own play, Something Like That, which was performed at the school for Drama Fest. "I will always continue to write because I enjoy it... It's a serious medical condition." "The plays the thing."

Equestrian

Kathryn was first interested in horseback riding when she had a pony ride at age six. She enjoys it because it is a mentally and physically difficult activity. A natural at the sport, she has been working hard with her intelligent horse named Banyan and plans to continue riding throughout her life. "It can't be explained in words; you actually have to do it." "Hit the trial."

Guitarist

Eight-year-old Chris's mother encouraged him to learn an instrument and he selected guitar because he wanted to be like his favorite rock stars. Guitar is so crucial to his life that he will continue playing for the rest of his life in order to survive. "I could not imagine myself not playing guitar." "Rock and roll will never die."

Disc Jockey

Kevin decided to become a DJ when he was 14 years old because his father had a DJ business when he was younger. Kevin's company is called "Good Vibrations." He has worked and volunteered for many school and community events. He plans to attend Providence College and keep his DJ business as a side business. "Rock the world!"

BMX

Matt has been riding bikes his whole life but began to do BMX tricks as a freshman. He plans on riding for as long as he can and possibly compete at different events. "A lot of my friends were doing it, so I bought a bike and decided to try it." "Step up."

Fencing

Doug began fencing as a freshman upon his mother's suggestion. Although the immediate interest was in fighting with a sword and swinging it to make a woosh! sound, he has come to love the technique and focus the sport requires. "En garde!"

Bandmates

Fran is the bassist and Jeff is the guitarist in their band called Grace Under Fire. Both were interested in playing instruments because they admired their musical older brothers. Fran and Jeff have been in several bands since age 13 and 14, respectively. They want to keep their band together when they go off to college. "Of course we plan to continue with our band after high school because it is one of our favorite things in the world."
"Keep calm and play on."

Volunteer

John's brother has Down Syndrome and therefore John committed himself to working with special needs children. Although, he has been there for his brother for his whole life, he began working with others at age eight and plans to pursue special education in the future. Opera

Rachel began her musical career at age six as a classical pianist, and sung in her church choir at age eight. She started lessons as a freshman and was trained classically. She will attend the Boston Conservatory for vocal performance and plans to get a master's degree in opera. "I want to inspire people with the voice that I was given, to touch someone emotionally."

We were young and stood at the top. High school was the prime of our lives. Whether it was the classroom or even on the turf fields of Connolly Stadium, this specific time in our lives was truly remarkable. Our minds, our bodies, and our happiness were at an all-time high. Never again would we feel the same rush of adrenaline coursing through our veins as we sprinted across the field for possession of the ball. Could our minds ever work at that same astonishing pace, connecting, elaborating, and solving the problem at hand? A pace that you came to know so well, and yet it left you breathless every time. We were young, and we were foolish. But so what? At that very moment, we became whatever we dreamt of. We possessed all the necessary tools to make these dreams come true. A body, as strong and beautiful as it would ever will be. A mind that was as clear as water and intellectual enough to put Einstein to shame. We wanted to stay young, to stay foolish. We were dreamers and we could not be defeated. Like the momentary transitions between the periods, for that brief moment in life, we were invincible.

Art, Music, & Clubs

It felt like a small spark that ignited the fire burning in your heart and soul.
That was motivation, taking a little time to warm, ignite your passion, and burn your doubts.
Wherever you looked you would find evidence of a motivated individual.
The furious scribbling of a pencil. The rapid clicks of a calculator working in overdrive.
Or perhaps the passionate and elaborate sound of an instrument being played.
The halls were filled with the sounds of desire.
Why?

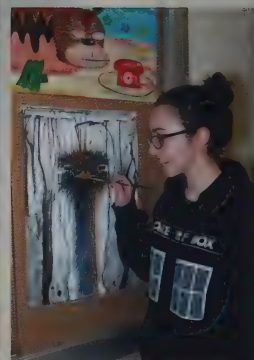

When you stepped into Woburn Memorial High School and looked in the hallways and classrooms.
The carefree smiles and laughs in the hallways betrayed the determination and hard work that was put in, not only in activities, but in classrooms as well.
Those with more scholarly affinities learned with the same ravenous drive as those in the marching band.
Whether it was the beautiful brush strokes upon the easel, or the passion in a song.
They wanted to be smarter, brighter, more innovative.
Why?

Perhaps there was an upper classman, who worked with that very same fire in their heart years ago.
Perhaps their torch had ignited the next.
Or these high scholars were simply chasing their dreams.
Whatever the reason may be, like the countless seniors before them.
No, like the countless seniors before us, we ignited the next torch.
We have sparked the fires in the hearts of others.

Pablo Picasso once said, "All children are artists. The problem is how to remain an artist once he grows up." This is true. Imagination and fantastic ideas skip across our minds during our youth. And as time passes that artist becomes less and less relevant. That is until that same imaginative spirit is re-introduced into our lives. Art is imagination brought into reality, whether on an canvas or perhaps in the form of a sculpture. The art programs here have done well in discovering the artists and imaginative gurus of the new generation. Whether the medium is paper, clay, canvas, or even photographs, the many students who have delved in these courses and found themselves entranced by art thank these classes for doing so. As Alex DiMauro says, "I was never interested in many elective courses and I just took art as a filler. But, I really got into it and now it's a huge part of my life." Others have known with certainty that art was a desire of theirs such as Doug Salvati who explains, "I've always wanted to take an art course immediately after I started high school." In this school is the quiet recesses of the school are the painters, sculptors, designers of the future. They are the Da Vinci, the Michelangelo, and Picassos of tomorrow, pushing the boundaries of possibility and put their imaginations into the realm of reality.

Come to the hidden E wing of the school and perhaps you will be blessed to hear the muffled rhythm and sound of instruments. That, is the sound of passion and perseverance, and as Beethoven once said, "Music is a higher revelation than all wisdom and philosophy." Music has touched us all, in our times of joy and sorrow, it has always been there as a representative and outlet for our emotions. But for our school musicians, the band members, chorus singers, jazz instrumentalists, music has not only touched their lives, it has become their lives. So, they toil through the practices and struggle endless for perfection, for the perfect sound. From the various plays throughout the year, to the electrifying sports events, or even during graduation, the musicians of our schools can be found, whipping the crowds into a frenzy or imposing the solemn tone of serious events. They are the next Mozarts, Beethovens, Bachs, the rockstars of tomorrow, or the musical revolutionaries of the future. Whatever it may be, they will spread and instill the joy of music wherever they go.

A flair for the dramatic and a love for the bright lights of a stage set can only mean one thing: theatre buffs. At any moment they can transform into a man brooding over the loss of his wife, a tin man without a heart, a girl in search of her lost family, whatever the play demands. Members of the plays are dreamers of some sort, escaping fantasy through a role. They pride themselves in their impeccable acting and singing. The success of productions such as Annie and The Sound of Music only pay homage to the hard work that each theatre member puts into the show. Shown at the top left is Molly Goddard wowing the crowd with her rendition of Liesl. The seniors that played the children included Kathleen Brennan, Molly Goddard, Vivek Patel, and Adrianna Manzi. Across the GLOBE

Each year the language department offers travel programs to the students to enrich their lives. During spring break of Junior year, students went to Spain and Italy. On these trips, students were able to witness the history of these countries up close and personal. Whether it be strolling down a Venetian waterway on a gondola or zooming by on the AVE high speed train in Spain, both trips were equally exciting. "Something I will always cherish from the Italy trip is growing so close to all the others who participated in the trip," says Dylan Scott. Devin Parziale recalls "sitting at little cafes and having milkshakes while talking to the waiters in Spanish." Some of the highlights of the trip were the beautiful churches and the wonderful people that they met. At the very bottom is a photo of the Italy trip which displays seniors (from left to right) Rachel Shukan, Mariah Sullivan, Brandon Heath, (bottom row) Dylan Scott, and Hanna Souhail. Interact Club is one of the most widely popular clubs that WMHS has to offer. Interact's goal is to "interact" with the community and school in various community service projects. Among the popular events that Interact puts on is the always popular Dating Game. Widely acclaimed at WMHS for being fun, exciting, and always a good time, the Dating Game is a great way to ease into February Vacation. Also, a popular event among students is the annual candy cane gram event, that Interact hosts before winter break. During this event, students can send a candy cane along with a little note to a friend, or perhaps even a secret admirer. Shown here, Brandi Schiavo encourages students to come join Interact at the Activities Fair. Tiara Toro lends a helping hand to a student decorating holiday cards, during the annual Interact and Best Buddies conjoined Christmas celebration. Also taking part in the celebration is Kevin Thifault who is decorating ornaments with his buddy. Finally, there is Interact President and Santa Claus, Joe Filardo who is accompanied by Christian Lundin and Chris Connolly who are delivering candy cane grams.

The flow and exchange of information and culture used to take months and even years in the age of the Greeks.

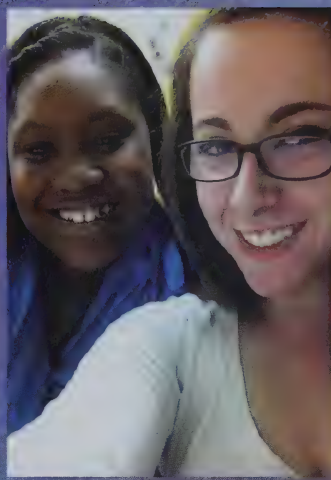

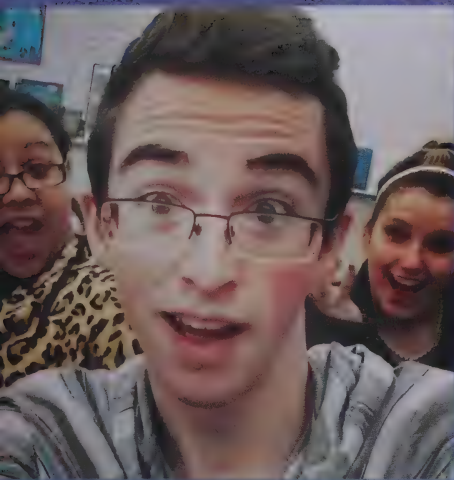

Kings would die and armies would invade countries and people were oblivious. Today, technology allows us to share and communicate amongst each other, often with a simple tap of a finger. Things such as the internet and smart phones have revolutionized the way in which people exchange culture and information. And when a specific aspect of this exchange becomes popular and common to the general public, trends are born. From the high score crazies of Temple Run to #tbt (Throwback Thursday) and even the infamous YOLO, trends raged throughout our high school lives. Without the Sperry craze, selfies, and the countless hashtags, the four years of high school would have been very different, right?

Students & Staff

Take a step backwards and take it all in. No two high school students are remotely similar. We all possessed different traits, were members of different clubs and sports. And yet, we found each other united, at dances, games, and trips. But, we were so astoundingly different. One must ask: how could we have ever gotten along? Differences have been the source of conflict throughout history, so why were we not the shattered student body that history had seen too many times? The answer is comically simple. Let it be known, we were each our own person, an individual with their own separate beliefs and thoughts. However, we dared not dwell on our differences. We embraced one another as friends, regardless of differences. It was a beautiful gathering of one another through friendship and school where we witnessed such a perfect phenomenon. No one cared how different you were. At Woburn High, you were judged by your character and actions. With that said, it came as no surprise when a student of Mrs. Joseph's science team could effortlessly talk and work with a student of Mr. Tully's band on the subject of music. Or a member of Coach Fowle's track team who spent time to support a friend at a basketball game. If every person were exactly the same, then all the differences in life we enjoy would disappear. Life would cease to be worth living. So go on, be yourself. Let no one change you no matter how foolish it may be. Stay as you, and be true in everything you do.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION

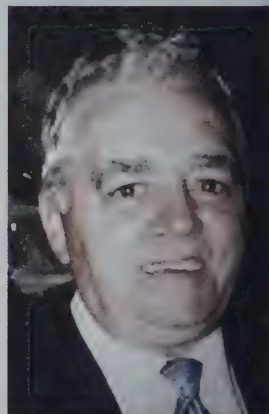

CATHERINE "TINA" MARGARET TROPEA

At age 101, Tina received her high school diploma in a special ceremony at the high school. Tina is an honorary member of the Class of 2014

IN MEMORY OF

BRIAN ALLEN ROBERTSON

OSWALD "OZZIE" GULLI

Equipment Manager for over 20 years and also "The voice of Woburn High School Sports," announcing all of the home games for football, soccer, and basketball.

National Honor Society

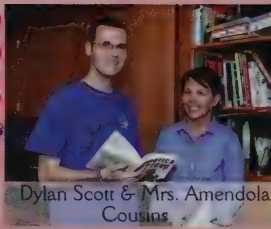

Every year at Woburn Memorial High School, a group of students are selected through the application process to be members of the prestigious National Honor Society. These students are not only chosen for their outstanding academic achievement and devotion to scholarship, but also for their demonstration of many other important traits; including that of leadership, character, and service. On November 13, 2013, in front of an audience of family and friends, seventy-four members of the class of 2014 recited the pledge, rewarded their certificates, and were granted admittance as the newest members of Woburn Memorial High School's chapter of the National Honor Society. As the year continued, all seventy-four members met and participated in various community service projects and fund raisers, and kept their dedication to scholarship, leadership, character, and service going strong.

At the top left, National Honor Society advisor, Ms. Belinda Smith opens the ceremony with a warm welcoming address. To the right, Ricky Metters, Joe Miller, and Nick Minichiello along with the Gabby DiFraia, Alex DiMauro, LeAnn DiMauro, Nhi Do, and April Drolette are thrilled to have just received their certificate. National Honor Society Officers, Chris Connolly (Vice President), Brandon Heath, (President) Hemali Patel, (Master of Ceremonies) and Dylan Scott (Secretary) have just finished their speeches and light the candles of scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

Family ties

Not many students get to share their high school experience with a family member. However, there are a few lucky students who get to say they did. The challenges of high school are tremendous, but having someone there that you always know you can count on, allows those challenges to subside just a bit. Sure it can be difficult knowing that someone you are related to is also in the school, but at the end of the day they will always be that one person who is there for you when the tough times of school catch up to you. Whether it be an aunt or an uncle, a mother or a father, a cousin, or a sibling, having a family member by your side throughout high school is something very special.

what's in your BUCKET?

Some people, like Joseph Miller, want to experience the thrill of going skydiving one day while others, like Kathleen Brennan, want to pull on their boots and marry a cowboy. Or maybe, like Elyce Bicheler, you want to soar high up in the air in a hot air balloon or you could take a trip to play four square in Colorado, Arizona, Utah, and New Mexico with Allison Mann. You could possibly ride a giraffe alongside Alexander Drollete. Maybe you want to join the FBI like Brandon Heath or take a trip to every ballpark in America with Christian Lundin.

Or maybe you want to crash a wedding like Robyn Collins, perform for the Boston Pops alongside Vivek Patel, or have a meal in every state with Samuel Ventresca. Some people, like Andrew Murphy, even want to be dare-devils and swim with sharks! Perhaps you'd like to travel the world with Melissa Bruno. Maybe you just simply want to complete a bucket list like Doug Salvati. Whatever it may be, we all have plenty of things we want to do before we "kick the bucket."

a Yerd's Guide:

To Making a Noteworthy Yearbook

1. Spring Training

The yearbook advisors chose our staff in April of our junior year. Susan Happel, our rep from Herff Jones Publishing Company, spent two days training us on the InDesign software. We later attended yearbook camp at the end of the school year.

2. Cover Design

We spent many hours brainstorming ideas on the theme of the book and discussed what we wanted to be remembered for as a class. Ashley Wagner came from the Herff Jones Plant in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania to help us design our cover.

3. Page Design

We worked as a team and everyone brought their own personal style to the pages. Doug was our photoshop man, Calvin and Brianna let all of the wonderful words flow onto the pages, and Kate became the detail queen. Devin was the creative genius behind the titles and sport pages, Cat and Dylan made sure all the designs were solid, while Gaele snapped most of the great photos in this book, and Kevin was our background master and Mr. Perfectionist.

4. Taking Pictures

As soon as we walked in the door on move up day freshman year Mrs. Thifault, Mrs. Getherall and Burlington Studios made sure we had thousand of photos that told the story of our lives in high school. Many students sent in photos online at eshare.

5. Creating Layouts

Accomplishing this feat was amazing. Every single page of the book was decided on during our spring training. All layouts were created and categorized. Every single page of the yearbook was custom designed during our 7th period, after school, late at night, or early Saturday mornings.

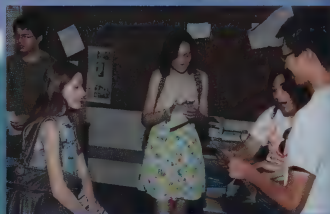

6. Writing

We had to make sure that all of the dividers had a wonderful story that went with our theme, which became a huge task. Calvin spent many hours polishing the words and Brianna made sure every "i" was crossed and "t" was dotted.

7. Off to the plant

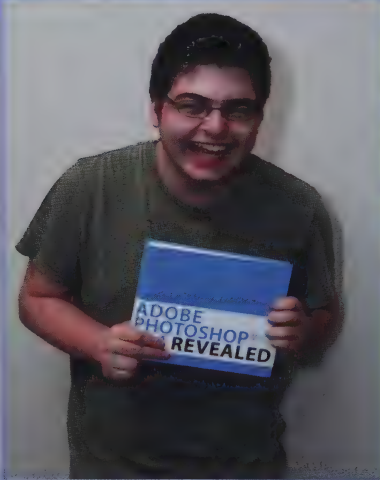

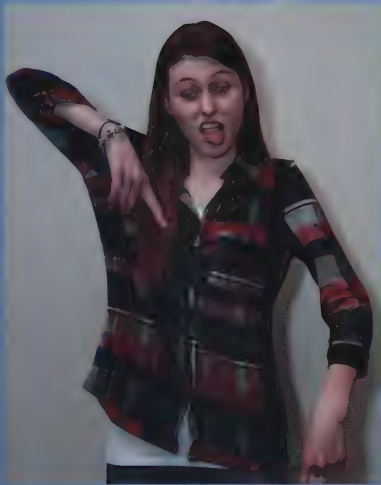

Pages were sent via computer to the plant in Gettysburg, PA. There they went through a color correction process for each photo, checked for accuracy and layout consistency. They were then sent off to the printing press and then folded and collated. Pages are then stitched and bound into the cover and then packed and shipped to our school for our yearbook ceremony.

The Yerdy Bunch

The yearbook staff isn't just a staff at all; it's a commitment, a learning experience, an adventure, but most importantly: we are a family. Each of us has come from a different group of friends, a unique culture, and varying backgrounds to make a special book commemorating the memories of our high school experiences forever. Being on the yearbook staff was a crazy ride, that's for sure. There were disagreements, a steep learning curve, and strict deadlines to meet but with all of that, we came out as more well-rounded individuals, meeting friends we may not have met otherwise. But it wasn't all work either, we definitely had our fun! We planned birthday surprises, a Christmas dinner that went horribly wrong (but turned out to be a lasting memory in the long-run), food Fridays where we would pig out on junk food, and Saturday morning breakfasts.

We spent countless hours brainstorming, taking pictures, doing photoshop and designing pages alongside our advisors, Mrs. Thifault and Mrs. Getherall, and our "yearbook lady," Susan Happel. Susan took her time to guide us through the process of creating a yearbook from theme and cover design to submitting our final pages to Herff Jones. No matter how crazy our question or concern, Mrs. Thifault had the answer! Despite how many times we asked Mrs. Getherall if we would have a color yearbook, she kept her cool and made it happen. Even though Susan was constantly telling us our pages could improve, we still loved her because we all knew very well that it was only going to make our book stronger. And no matter how many times we asked you, our classmates, to submit photos, fill out surveys, and give suggestions, you guys pulled through and made it happen. We all want to thank you for that. All of us staff members put in hard work and determination to make this book as creative as we could. We have grown and learned together through these experiences which have inevitably changed our lives for the better. After everything is said and done any of us yerds could talk on and on about yearbook, but, at the end of the day, all we'll end up saying is: "Well, I guess you just had to be there."

*"You see us as you want to see us...
In the simplest terms, in the most convenient definitions. But what we found out is that each one of us is a brain...*

...and an athlete...

...and a basket case...

...a princess...

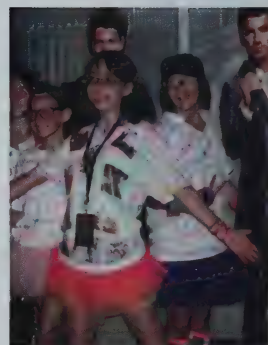

...and a criminal...

Does that answer your question?

*Sincerely yours,
The Breakfast Club."*

Alex DiMauro

Congratulations Alex,

We are so proud of you and all your accomplishments. Your dedication to your sport is inspiring. So proud that your teammates believed in you to elect you as tri-captain. Your creativity is such a gift, boredom will never be an issue in your life. You can teach yourself any task you wish to learn. Your ability to fit in any situation, yet not be afraid to stand out (tutu tuesday) is a wonderful attribute. Can't wait to see where the future takes you, or you take the future.

Love, Mumma, Daddy, Samantha & Madeline

Kevin Thifault

*We hope that the days come easy and the moments pass slow,
And each road leads you where you want to go,
And if you're faced with a choice, and you have to choose,
We hope you choose the one that means the most to you.*

*And if one door opens to another door closed,
We hope you keep on walkin' till you find the open one.
Remember if it's cold outside,
Show the world the warmth of your smile.*

*Our wish, for you, is that this life becomes all that you want it to be,
Your dreams stay big, and your worries stay small,
You never need to carry more than you can hold,
And while you're out there getting where you're getting to Remember how much we love you.*

*We hope you never look back, but you never forget,
All the ones who love you, in the places you left.
We hope you always forgive, and you never regret,
And you help somebody every chance you get.
Oh, you find God's grace, in every mistake,
And you always give more than you take.*

*We hope that life becomes all that you want it to be.
And your dreams come true.*

Trevor,

We are extremely proud of you and your accomplishments. Since you were a baby you have amazed us and you continue to amaze us as you live your life everyday.

You have grown into a wonderful young man with strong leadership skills, caring ways, humor, and dedication. Life with you has truly been a bed of roses.

Your future is so bright, keep the faith and keep reaching for the stars! The road ahead may not be easy, so always remember these words from JBJ "success is falling nine times and getting up ten." "You have something no one else has, or has ever had: your fingerprints, your brain, your heart. Be an individual. Be unique. Stand out. Make noise. Make someone notice."

Here's to blue skies and graduation-cap showers.

The forecast for your future is what you make it of it. Congratulations to all the Woburn High School graduating seniors from all of us at Rockland Trust. Our relationship with our local schools, and to each of you, is important to us as part of our ongoing commitment to strengthening the communities where we work and live.

To find out why Rockland Trust is the bank where each relationship matters, stop by any of our branch locations, call 800.222.2299, or visit www.RocklandTrust.com.

TRENDS & TECHNOLOGY

FROM COLOR RUNS AND SHARING VIDEOS TO DELIVERY DRONES, NEW IDEAS PUSH THE LIMITS OF IMAGINATION AND INNOVATION

Starred as an event to promote healthiness and happiness by bringing the community together to participate in the "Happiest 5K on the Planet." Color Runs experienced exponential growth again in 2013. Runners dressed in white got doused in neon-colored powders at every kilometer, and each of the more than 170 events in 30+ countries in 2013 ended with a "Finish Festival," a post-race party with music, dancing and massive solar throws designed to create even more vivid color combinations. Beginning in June, Instagram added the ability for users to shoot and share 15-second videos, enhanced by one of its visual filters. The new video feature was released as a free update to the existing Instagram app. A delivery startup "unfined holidays" coast to coast when demand for shipping of online purchases exceeded capacity and winter storms caused delays in major hubs nationwide. Considering other options, Amazon CEO Jeff Bezos told CNN News he expected a drone delivery system to be in place for unmanned aerial deliveries as soon as federal rules changed to allow such flights.

Facebook enabled users to search for conversation topics within status updates and posts with Graph Search, and launched clickable #hashtags.

Plus, founder Mark Zuckerberg and crew acquired WhatsApp for $16 billion to add mobile messaging capabilities.

NEW RELEASES Apple upped the game with colorful and metallic phones in the iOS 5 line as well as adding Retina display to all latest generation products. The Smarty Ring, a Bluetooth-enabled wearable gadget allowed users to check smartphone alerts and manage incoming calls right from their fingers. Users could manage the settings for their Smarty Rings from a mobile app, and use the device as a watch, timer or phone finder. FITBIT & NIKE FUEL Fitness tracking products that synched step counts, fuel burned and other data to users' phones or computers increased in popularity. WEIGHTLESS PROJECT This project was an effort to bridge the gap between obesity and hunger. By partnering with health and fitness brands, social organizations and philanthropic foundations, the project converted the calories burnt into funds, which were donated to programs for food relief and malnutrition.

The Non-GMO Project — a non-profit with the mission of protecting the food supply and giving consumers an informed choice — was started to identify products produced according to known industry best practices.

WAR IN SYRIA

More than two years after the Arab Spring uprising began, the conflict in Syria continued to pit forces loyal to the Ba'ath government against those seeking to oust it. A chemical attack — the worst in 25 years — that killed hundreds and wounded thousands more in Damascus in August led to U.S. calls for military action against Syria, which denied responsibility and blamed rebel fighters for the deaths. Within weeks Russia, a long-time Syrian ally, presented a proposal to eliminate the regime's chemical weapons stockpile under international supervision and the White House backed off. While the U.N., the European Union, Arab League and the Organization of Islamic Cooperation scheduled a second round of peace talks in Geneva for February, the talks ended in a stalemate.

IRS SCANDAL

While the mission statement for the Internal Revenue Service pledges to “enforce the law with integrity and fairness to all,” controversy flared after a report revealed the agency's targeting for closer scrutiny of specific groups applying for tax exemptions, based on their names or political themes. Ultimately, lawmakers called for the resignations of three IRS commissioners, but no criminal charges were ever filed.

OBAMACARE (AFFORDABLE CARE ACT)

THE MOST SIGNIFICANT CHANGE IN HEALTH CARE IN DECADES

While the new plan was intended to put consumers back in charge of their health care, there was not consensus on the bill's effectiveness. Supporters contended that the “Patient's Bill of Rights” gave the public tools and choices they needed to make informed choices about their health. Detractors complained of technical issues, paperwork problems and higher-than-expected premiums.

POLITICAL WEAPONS STRUGGLES

CHINA AND NORTH KOREA FLEX THEIR MUSCLES

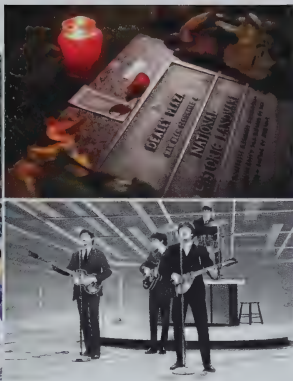

Growing tension between China, a rising maritime power, and the United States, the dominant naval power in the Pacific, nearly caused a collision between two carriers in December. The American vessel, which was traveling in international waters, maneuvered to avoid the Chinese ship which had intentionally crossed its bow. Satellite images from February showed that North Korea had expanded its main satellite launch site, apparently to accommodate larger rockets being developed for its intercontinental ballistic missile program. While actions suggested imminent nuclear attacks against South Korea, Japan and the United States by the new North Korean administration under Kim Jong-un, the government blamed tensions on military exercises carried out by the United States and South Korea.

STATE OF THE UNION

OBAMA: ‘THE REST OF MY PRESIDENCY IS FOR WORKING-CLASS AMERICA’

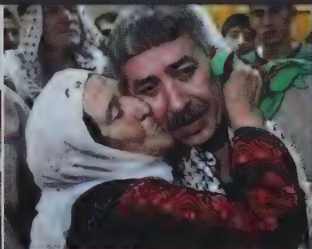

Action was the underlying theme of President Barack Obama's Jan. 28 State of the Union address. The president — whose popularity ratings had declined to 42 percent — outlined goals and priorities that included economic opportunity, energy and education, and called for more government support to help rebuild the nation's infrastructure in order to spur growth and create more employment opportunities.

50TH ANNIVERSARIES CROWDS VISITED THE NATIONAL MALL IN AUGUST FOR A WEEK OF ACTIVITIES COMMEMORATING 1963'S CIVIL RIGHTS MARCH ON WASHINGTON AND DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.'S "I HAVE A DREAM" SPEECH. JUST MONTHS LATER, PUBLICITY OVER THE ANNIVERSARY OF PRESIDENT JOHN F. KENNEDY'S ASSASSINATION CREATED RENEWED INTEREST. THEN, IN FEBRUARY, THE IMPACT OF THE BEATLES' FIRST APPEARANCE ON THE ED SULLIVAN SHOW WAS CELEBRATED.

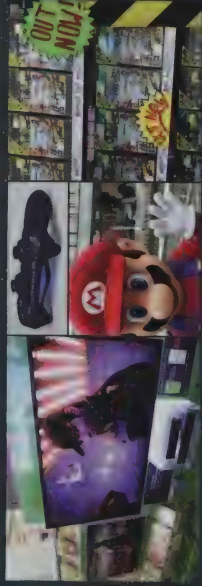

around the world

HERO OR TRAITOR? Edward Snowden, a former CIA employee and National Security Agency (NSA) contractor, became known worldwide when he disclosed classified documents to the media. The leak fueled debates over mass surveillance, government secrecy and the balance between national security and privacy. CONTROVERSIAL TRIAL Protests erupted when a jury found neighborhood watch participant George Zimmerman not guilty in the death of Florida teenager Trayvon Martin. SCHOOL LUNCH POISONING At least 23 students died and dozens more fell ill at a village primary school in eastern India after eating contaminated free lunches. Angered by the incident, villagers took to the streets in protest. HE'S THE MAN Just one year into his papacy, Pope Francis was named Time magazine's 2013 'Person of the Year.' His acts of humility, simple lifestyle and welcoming ways quickly improved the Catholic Church's image. EGYPTIAN OUSTER Protests raged for months after the overthrow of Egyptian president Mohammed Morsi. The Islamist leader contended that he remained Egypt's legitimate president because there had been no official decree removing him from office. A FRESH START The city of Detroit officially became the largest municipality in U.S. history to enter Chapter 9 bankruptcy when a judge ruled the city insolvent. The decision allowed the city to negotiate as it attempted to eliminate $18 billion in debt. FREE AT LAST In a step aimed at "resuming the diplomatic process," Israel released 26 Palestinian prisoners in a gesture of good will between the two sides, days before a visit to the region by U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry. RANA PLAZA COLLAPSE An eight-story commercial building collapsed in Bangladesh in April, 2013 killing 1,129 and injuring 2,515 in the deadliest accidental structural failure in modern history. MERGER UNDERWAY The world's largest airline was created in December 2013 when U.S. Airways and American Airlines joined forces. UKRAINIAN PROTESTS Ongoing political unrest intensified when the world spotlight was on nearby Sochi, escalating to violence and leading to dozens of deaths. MORE FREEDOM TO MARRY In addition to a Supreme Court decision ruling sections of the Defense of Marriage Act unconstitutional, eight more states legalized same sex marriage, bringing the total to 17.

LET THE GAMES BEGIN

IT WAS A YEAR OF POTENTIAL AND PROLIFIC PRODUCTIVITY

The year was marked with not just game releases galore, but with games noted for their quality. From Ni no Kuni: Wrath of the White Witch, Fair Cry 3: Blood Dragon, Antichamber, Grand Theft Auto 5, Fire Emblem: Awakening and Metal Gear Rising: Revengeance to Enan Odyssey IV: Legends of the Titan, Temple Raider, Luigi's Mansion: Dark Moon and Super Mario 3D World, there was something new for every kind of gamer. And the November 2013 releases of the PS4 and Xbox One systems presented potential for future possibilities.

IN THE MUSIC SCENE

BRUNO MARS The first lead Super Bowl halftime performer under age 30, Mars was nominated for four Grammys, and won Best Pop Vocal Album with Unorthodox Jukebox. MACKLEMORE & RYAN LEWIS Best New Artist and Best Rap Song were just two of the four categories the duo won at the 56th annual Grammy Awards. DAFT PUNK FEATURING PHARRELL The French duo known for their robotic costumes won five Grammys, including Album of the Year for their 2013 hit Random Access Memories. KACEY MUSGRAVES At 25, this Texas singer-songwriter was nominated for four Grammys (and won two). Her debut Nashville album Some Trailer Different Park topped the charts and included three hit singles. LORDE At 17, New Zealand singer-songwriter Ella Yelich-O'Connor won both Song of the Year and Best Pop Solo Performance for her hit, "Royals" at the Grammys. BLAKE SHELTON Named CMA Male Vocalist of the Year for the fourth consecutive time, Shelton also collected his first-ever Album of the Year honors for Based on a True Story, his eighth studio album which debuted at No. 1.

ATHLETES FOR ANIMALS After Sochi's abundant population of stray dogs made world headlines, plans were put into action for the rescue, adoption and care of many. SPARTAN HOTELS AND BATHROOMS Visitors were unhappy with issues of comfort, safety and cleanliness. UNIFORMLY DISAPPOINTED When success eluded the favored U.S. speedskating team, members rejected their new "Mach 39" uniforms produced by Under Armour in cooperation with defense contractor Lockheed Martin and reverted to apparel worn in previous competitions. TECHNICAL GLITCH Russian organizers made a light-hearted joke at their own expense during the closing ceremony by referring back to the opening ceremony when one of the five Olympic rings failed to appear.

Meryl Davis and Charlie White won gold in ice dancing, besting their Canadian training partners Tessa Virtue and Scott Moir by just 4.53. Mikaela Shiffrin, 18, won gold in women's skiing slalom to become the youngest Olympic alpine champion ever.

CANADIAN COMEBACK A disappointed U.S. team wears their silver medals, following a 3-2 overtime loss to Canada in women's hockey. TEAM CANADA Players celebrate their second consecutive gold medal, after beating Sweden 3-0 in the finals. 13 MEDALS Norway's Ole Einar Bjoerndalen, 40, added golds in a pair of biathlon events in Sochi and set a record becoming the most decorated Winter Olympian in history. U.S. MEN SWEEP SKI SLOPESTYLE United States' Gus Kenworthy, Joss Christensen and Nicholas Goepper took all three medals in the debut of freestyle men's ski slopestyle at the games. It was the first American Winter Games sweep since 2002. DUTCH DOMINATION The Netherlands took home a staggering eight gold medals — and 23 medals overall — in 12 speedskating events. The Polish and Russian teams were next most successful, earning three medals each. JUDGING QUESTIONED When Adelina Sotnikova — whose routine was regarded as having been slightly inferior to that of South Korean runner-up Yuna Kim, won the gold — many questioned the impartiality of the judges.

KEEPING BOSTON STRONG

THE BOSTON MARATHON – AN ICONIC RITE OF SPRING – FALLS VICTIM TO A TERRORIST ATTACK BUT THE CITY UNIFIES IN A SHOW OF STRENGTH

Since 1897, runners had gathered on the third Monday in April to run the Boston Marathon, which ended in the city's center. But 2013's race was different. Chechen immigrants Tamerlan and Dzhokhar Tsarnaev, ages 26 and 19 respectively, set off a pair of bombs made in pressure cookers packed with ball bearings and nails, killing three and injuring 260. Within days, the elder died in a shootout with police and his brother was captured when he was discovered hiding in a boat stored in a backyard. The surviving brother said the duo had hatched the plot as retribution for civilian deaths in Iraq and Afghanistan as a result of the U.S. conflict there. Residents of Boston and others worldwide banded together to be strong in a time of chaos and to raise funds to aid the victims. One Fund, the charity formed to benefit victims, provided more than $70 million in aid. The Boston Marathon – and the city itself – were about courage and resilience and community.

Prince George of Cambridge, born on July 22, was Queen Elizabeth's first great-grandson. His birth marked only the second time in history that three generations of direct heirs to the British throne had been alive at one time. Thanks to an elaborate project by the Make-A-Wish Foundation, 5-year-old Miles Scott, whose leukemia was in remission, had a chance to fight crime around San Francisco – which had been transformed into Gotham City for a day – in November.

NELSON MANDELA

HAILED AS A TIRELESS FIGHTER FOR RACIAL EQUALITY, HE RECEIVED MORE THAN 250 AWARDS DURING HIS LIFETIME

Nelson Rolihlahla Mandela, born in a small village in South Africa on July 18, 1918, fought against apartheid and injustice until his death on December 5, 2013. He became involved in the anti-apartheid movement in his 20s and spent 20 years directing acts of defiance against the South African government. In the early 1960s he spent five years in prison for organizing a three-day workers' strike and two years later was sentenced to life for political offenses. He served 27 years and contracted tuberculosis during his incarceration. He shared the Nobel Peace Prize with President F. W. deKlerk in 1993 and was elected South Africa's first black president the following year, serving for five years. He retired from public life in 2004 but continued to promote humanitarian efforts throughout the world.

RIGHTING THE COSTA CONCORDIA The cruise ship hit a reef off Italy in January 2012, capsizing and claiming 32 lives. After 18 hours and preparation by 500 engineers and divers, the ship was righted in September 2013 so it could be dismantled and scrapped. SAN FRANCISCO PLANE CRASH An Asiana flight from South Korea hit the seawall short of the runway at San Francisco International Airport in July, shearing off the landing gear and tail section of the Boeing 777. Two of the 307 passengers died at the scene, one having been run over by a fire truck. Another passenger died later and 181 suffered injuries.

NYC DERAILMENT A Bronx commuter train jumped the tracks after traveling nearly three times the posted speed limit into a curve. All seven coaches and the locomotive came off the tracks, killing four of the 150 passengers. The engineer admitted to nodding off before the crash. DEADLY TRAIN DISASTER Canada's worst railway catastrophe in nearly 150 years left 47 people dead when a runaway oil tanker train derailed and exploded in Lac-Mégantic, a resort town of 6,000 near the U.S. border. The resulting fire burned for more than 36 hours, damaging 30 buildings and forcing thousands to evacuate their homes.

Gun violence continued to plague schools. In June, six people, including the shooter, died when 23-year-old John Zawahri opened fire in the library at Santa Monica College. He had also killed his father and brother at their home. In October, 12-year-old Jose Reyes shot a teacher at Sparks Middle School in Nevada before turning the gun on himself. A month later in Colorado, Karl Pierson shot and killed Arapahoe High School classmate Claire Davis and then shot himself. He was looking for a faculty member who had angered him. In the midst of these tragedies, people took comfort in the story of Antoinette Tuff, the bookkeeper at a Georgia school. When a gunman stormed the building, she talked him into surrendering by telling him stories of her own life trials.

In the aftermath of numerous mass shootings, the president called on lawmakers to take action to reduce gun violence. The effort met stiff resistance from the National Rifle Association and other groups. A proposed bill expanding background checks for all firearms purchases stalled in the Senate in April when supporters came up six votes short of the 60 needed.

ONE TEAM ONE DREAM

LOPSIDED Seattle Seahawks players raise the Vince Lombardi Trophy after Super Bowl XLVIII. The Seahawks defeated the Denver Broncos 43-8 at MetLife Stadium in East Rutherford, NJ. For many, one of the Super Bowl highlights was Bruno Mars' halftime performance. BOSTON PROUD After the Boston Red Sox finished off the St. Louis Cardinals in game six of the World Series, David Ortiz was named MVP. His .760 on-base percentage and .688 batting average were the second-highest in Series history. THE HEAT WAS ON Miami Heat all-stars Dwyane Wade and LeBron James celebrate defeating the San Antonio Spurs 95-88 in game seven of the NBA Finals. James repeated as series MVP, earning the honor for the fourth time. W IS FOR WIN Minnesota Lynx players with the championship trophy after defeating the Atlanta Dream 86-77 in game three of the WNBA Finals. The Lynx swept the series, becoming just the second WNBA team to do so since the best-of-five finals format was adopted in 2005. SIX-TIME CHAMPION Jimmie Johnson, driver of the number 48 Lowe's Chevrolet, celebrates winning the NASCAR Sprint Cup Championship. His 2013 season included six wins, three poles, 16 top five and 24 top 10 finishes. FINAL FOUR Louisville Cardinals guard Kevin Ware poses with the net he cut after an 82-76 victory over Michigan in the Final Four at Atlanta's Georgia Dome. It was Louisville's second consecutive Final Four appearance and their first championship title since 1986. CHAMPIONS AGAIN UConn players celebrate their 93-60 win over Louisville in the NCAA Women's Final Four. The championship was the Huskies' seventh since 2000. EXCITING TO THE END Florida State fans celebrate a 34-31 BCS Championship victory over the Auburn Tigers. The Seminoles took the lead on a 2-yard touchdown pass with just 13 seconds remaining in the game. On the final play, Auburn attempted several unsuccessful laterals.

STERIOD ALLEGATIONS IN BASEBALL

In July, 2013, Major League Baseball suspended 14 players accused of obtaining steroids from a south Florida clinic. While many of the suspensions were for 50 games, Yankee Alex Rodriguez's 162-game suspension kept him out the entire 2014 season.

Australian Adam Scott celebrates after making a putt for birdie on the 18th before going on to win the 2013 Masters at Augusta National. Top-ranked Inbee Park of South Korea won both the LPGA Championship and the U.S. Open.

Twenty-two teams entered the Tour de France cycling race, which was won by Britain's Chris Froome of Team Sky. Britain's Andy Murray defeated Serbia's Novak Djokovic in the men's singles final at Wimbledon. Marion Bartoli of France returns to Sabine Lisicki of Germany during the women's singles final before capturing the title at Wimbledon. Though the rain stopped before the race, Kentucky Derby track conditions were cold and sloppy. Orb, the Florida Derby winner and a 7-2 favorite, prevailed. Street skateboarder Nyjah Huston wins gold at the 2013 Summer X Games.
